WASHINGTON.

Treaty With the Crows--Resident Com- missioner--Sickness at the South, Etc.

Special to the Cincinnati Commercial of to-day.

Statements have been publicly made to the effect that there is a treaty to be made by railroad and speculators to get possession of the lands of the old reservation, on which the Indians now are, in case Congress sanctions and authorizes the proposed removal.

That the city of Washington is agreeable and pleasant to the members of Congress generally, is not a secret, and that many of them spend a good deal of time during the absence of Congress when they have little business which could not be attended to by their agents here attending the sessions of the body.

Besides about twenty-five Senators and a dozen more Republican members have houses in this city, and one-half of whom own houses they live in, and fifteen or twenty new members have made known their purpose to rent or buy houses here in the city.

Thus far the official investigation into the affairs of Collector Harpell has developed proof of a de-liberate attempt to defraud the government of thousands of dollars, and nobody pretends to say that evi-dences of further deficiencies may not be discov-ered as the examinations progress.

The case of the proper authorities have had in serious consideration the subject of the creation of a new customs revenue district, and they assert that even if an additional district were to be made it would not embrace the territory mentioned in the published statements, namely, the States of Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska.

It turns out that if the alterations suggested by the committee are made, the lock adopted for the use of the Treasury will be the exact counterpart of the lock used by the inventor, on the adoption of whose specimen the committee could not agree.

Telegrams and letters received here from Alabama, Florida and Texas contain proofs of the frightful condition of affairs occasioned in those States by the yellow fever. The disease is said to be of the most malignant type, and though epi-demic in only a few localities, the knowledge of the fact that the scourge prevails and that it is spread by the blood of the patient, has produced terror among the inhabitants of remote sections of the country. At little statement any point has been reported, while news from counties and towns adjacent to the districts already known to be in-fested has received indicating a rapid spread of the disease.

It has recently made its appearance at Houston, Texas, and is said to have been introduced from the opposite direction from Shreveport, where the fever made its first appearance, is to the effect that the first death place of the disease, being that of Lieutenant Commander Archibald N. Mitchell, of Illinois, who was at that point on naval duty. About one quarter of the soldiers stationed at the Fort have been taken down by the disease. Their commander, Lieu-tenant Bell, died on the 13th from the effects of the fever.

INDIANA.

Jail Delivery--Fires and Casualties, etc.

LOANSPORT, September 16--Sunday night about 7 o'clock a desperado, named James, succeeded in making their escape from jail by knocking Mr. Gammit, the jailer senseless, while he was removing the supper dishes from the cell. The prisoners endeavored to close the door, but the prisoners were too quick for her, and knocked her down and escaped before the alarm could be given. They are still at large, though every effort is being made to recapture them. The jailer and wife are not dan-gerously hurt.

MUSKOGEE, September 16--A serious accident occurred at Boyce's Bolting Cloth Factory, in this city, Saturday, by which a very estimable young man, Phineas Turner, the foreman, came to his death. Turner was in some way caught be-tween the heavy rollers used for pressing the cloth, and was drawn in up to the shoulder, being in-stantly broken by the bones. The belt suddenly flew off the pulley at this juncture, thereby saving his life. He is not considered fatally injured, though his arm will probably have to be amputated.

WINCHESTER, September 16--The residence of Samuel Antbach was completely destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. Loss, eight thou-sand dollars, no insurance. It was the work of an incendiary.

NEW YORK.

Disastrous Fire at Rondout.

RONDOUT, September 16--A great con-fagration is raging at this place. The entire fire department is fighting the flames. There is no tell-ing where the fire will end. The Lutheran Church, Thompson's pork-packing establishment, and the canal stables are on fire. One whole block of buildings has been entirely consumed. The wind from the southwest, and blowing a gale.

2:30 P. M.--The fire is now under control. The stables of Korman & Schuyler, as well as the church-ward John Derrinbacker and McMillen & Jones, the establishment of Thompson & Son, and the pork pack-ing establishment of Korman & Schuyler, are all on fire. The church is burning. Loss at least fifty thousand dollars; insurance not ascertained.

The yellow fever is still spreading in Memphis.

The California State Fair at Sacramento opened Monday.

Cincinnati has subscribed $1,000 for the relief of the Shreveport sufferers.

The Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. of the United States is holding its annual communication in Baltimore.

The defalcation of Revenue Collector Harper, of the Sangamon (Illinois) District, reaches $100,715.

The banking house of S. H. Tucker, at Little Rock, the oldest in Arkansas, suspended yesterday morning.

The negroes of the Indian Nation—formerly slaves of the Indians—are moving for a territorial government.

Lieutenant Commander A. N. Mitchell, commanding the Pawnee at Key West, died on Sunday of yellow fever.

A dispatch from Havre announces the death near that city of the Duke de Rian-gore, the husband of Queen Christine of Spain.

Ex-City Treasurer Sprague, of Brooklyn, has been placed under arrest on an affidavit charging him with embezzling $148,000 of the city's funds.

A very heavy frost is reported Sunday night along the line of the Northwest Railroad, and at some points on the Chicago and Aton Railroad in Illinois.

A California Republican State Convention to nominate a Judge of the Supreme Court, meets at Sacramento, and on Wednesday the Democratic State Convention.

Jack Sheppard successfully accomplished walking one thousand miles in one thousand consecutive hours, at San Francisco, Monday. He suffered extremely in the last portion of the walk.

The walls of a building in the town of Stonehouse, Devonshire, England, which had been recently burned, fell yesterday morning, killing eight persons and injuring several others.

The veterans of the Mexican war celebrated the anniversary of the fall of the city of Mexico, in New York yesterday. Delegations are present from Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and other cities.

Charles Brent Vogel, bar tender, who was shot Sunday night in the saloon, corner of Madison and Clark streets, Chicago, is still alive, though his recovery is considered impossible. There is as yet no clue to the mystery.

Walter Bray, who was riding on the front platform of a Third Avenue street car in New York Sunday night, struck the station street sweeper in the head with a car hook because he did not get out of the way as promptly as the driver wished. The wound is probably fatal. Bray was arrested.

The propeller Ironides, of the Englewood line, connecting with the D. & M. railroad and one of the largest steamers of the lakes, foundered and sunk seven miles off Grand Haven, yesterday night. Thirty-two passengers are known to have been saved, and fourteen bodies have been recovered.

The St. Louis Democrat, speaking of the recent election in Maine, says it is "like Mercutio's wound, it is not as wide as a barn door, nor as deep as a well, but it will do." Mercutio did not say that. He said his wound was not so wide as a "church door" and that it would "serve." A literary man who butchers Shakespeare in that way is as bad as a preacher who mis-quotes the Bible.

The husband of Queen Christina, of Spain, the fat, fair and frolicsome lady who was invited off the throne by the revolution, is dead. It will make no difference to her majesty, for while living he might as well have been married to the dead Queen Isabella. He was not the father of any of her nine children, and scandal, of quite a moderate kind, insisted that she didn't know who was. Like most of the race of "savage azul" there was nothing of him but his title.

A company of English emigrants to Brazil, coaxed there by the alluring representations of some Brazilian government agent, have returned mad, poor, hungry and full of vengeance. They say the official representations were lies, and that the official promises were shamefully broken, and, in short, they don't recommend the land of the Amazon, the Bell Bird diamonds and Wourali poison, as a good place for an Englishman seeking to better his condition, to go. All of which "makes good" for us who have been tried so often that nobody fears being disappointed here.

SOMEbody has found another supposed skeleton of a mastodon in a swamp some eight miles east of Richmond in this State. Its tusk measure twelve feet in length, and weighs a hundred and sixty pounds. It is proposed to unearth the remainder of the bones and set them up for a show. Mastodon bones, and other relics of a gigantic existence in the era immediately preceding man on the earth, if not really extending for centuries into his era, have become so common now, and in this country, that they have ceased to attract more attention than the discovery of "another asteroid."

HEALTH and Home lodges as a new complaint against the salary grab is the corruption of the English language by the introduction of the phrase "cover into." [Exchange.]

The "salary grab act" has enough to bear justly without being loaded with what does not belong to it. The phrase "cover into the Treasury," or "cover back into the Treasury," originated in the Act of Congress requiring appropriations unexpended at the end of two years to be returned or retained as money that had never been diverted from the general fund to any specific purpose. It was in use before the back pay fraud was ever dreamed of.

THERE is a show of steadiness and system in the operations of the Spanish Government, since it passed into the hands of Castelar, which promises better than we could have hoped a few weeks ago when the Ministry changed as often as an April day. The military movements seem to be directed with a purpose, and they are certainly producing very decided effects. The Cartagena insurrectionists have been pressed so hard that they have solicited an alliance with the Carlists in an effort to throw off the Republican besieging forces. So desperate a resort proves that their cause is lost, that they have no strength of their own and no resources elsewhere upon which they can count. It does more. It proves that either the movement in which they started was a narrow local affair, or that the promptness with which it has been attacked and suffocated has driven coadjutors elsewhere away from it. The Carlists, also, appear to be losing all the prestige gained at the outset by their energy and devotion. They have been beaten and beaten so often that their successes make little headway against the current. It is now reported that the victory claimed by the Carlists in the North of Spain is a humbug, and that they were severely thrashed by 10,000 against 14,000. Probably this is an exaggeration the other way. But in any case, the government is showing itself better worth the support of the people of all classes who want a permanent government, and don't want a return of the cruelty, the ignorance, the beastliness of the days of priestly ascendancy, than at any time since the abdication of Amadeus. If Castelar, the orator, scholar, philosopher and author, should succeed under so many difficulties where Lamartine failed so signally under less, he will add still the highest title to his catalogue of claims to admiration and be the great statesman, and the "savior of his country," second to no man whose name graces the rolls of fame in any land or age.

DONE AT LAST.

The Council has concurred in the report of the committee appointed to see about filling up the canal, and passed through the first reading an ordinance carrying out the suggestions of the report. The substance of both is that the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette Railroad Company will, in consideration of being allowed to lay a second track west of the present one, from Louisiana to North streets, fill up the canal below Market to Louisiana, and reduce the road to street grades, and the city shall build a sewer in the old bed from Market street to tap the Kentucky avenue sewer at the canal crossing. The ordinance is made a special order for the next regular meeting. We have, as our readers are well aware, discussed the lower canal case frequently, so far as its aspect as a nuisance was concerned, and it has had no other for twenty years at least, and have felt, as has everybody else, a strong interest in its legal abatement and obliteration. It has been the source of a great deal of sickness and suffering, and the obstruction of valuable improvements. It has been an eye-sore, a receptacle of filth, of fragments of expelled boats, rejected vegetables and cast-off kitchen ware. It has been the sepulchre of pigs, cats, dogs and fowls. It has been a verminous abomination, an extensive assortment of invincible disgusts. To be rid of it on any terms that do not make it a further annoyance to the people whom it has already punished enough, seems to us so desirable that we are quite at a loss to understand why the two Councilmen for the Fifth Ward should oppose the plan recommended by the committee. If they don't want the canal filled up they greatly misrepresent their constituents, though that is nothing new, for it is doubtful if they ever tried to really represent them, or could know whether they did or not. If they do want it filled, what better plan have they for it? We have never heard of any, and we are tolerably confident that there has been no project broached for a score of years affecting that vile gash in the face of the city that we have not been fully and promptly informed of. Their vote looks a "dog-in-the-manger" operation. They have nothing of their own they want done, and they don't want anything of anybody else's done. Neither of these gentlemen have ever threatened a conflagration of even the little greasy water left in the canal by his brilliance of statesmanship or sagacity of suggestion, and neither has earned a lofty reputation for disinterestedness and sacrifice of individual advantage or caprice to public good; in point of fact neither knows anything whatever of the business or interests of the city, and cares as little as he knows; and it is not unreasonable to suspect that they would rather the canal would remain as it is to give them something convenient, and that they can understand, to exercise their legislative muscle on.

We do not pretend to say that there may not be something more in the arrangement between the railroad and the Water Works Company than the additional track and canal filling, but we do pretend to say that it can make very little difference to the city if there is, as whatever scheme may be covered up, it can do no more harm, if it is meant to do any, in the hands of a company just out of bankruptcy than in the hands of a company that seems but just able to keep out. We can see nothing in the affair but a plain, sensible arrangement, by which the Water Works Company gets rid of a source of just complaint and constant assault or insinuation, and the railroad company gets hold of the ground for a new and necessary track. There is mutual advantage and that is motive and basis enough without looking for more. And in this arrangement the city gains all and loses nothing, so far as we can see. Four squares of ineffable abomination will be removed forever. Nearly a half mile of disgust will be buried in brick, and sent "sunless" to the river to fatten catfish. This is something. How many poor souls between Tennessee and West streets "desired it long, and died without the sight?" It is clear gain to us, and why need we care what advantage it may be to anybody else? We should like to see the filling extend to Merrill street, and it ought to go that far at least, for to that crossing the canal runs along Missouri street. And below that there is but little property that can be much affected now either by a change or retention of the present condition of the canal. The water will soon run out of it when the stream from above is diverted into the sewer, and the dry bed will be no nuisance in a little while. We do not mean that the whole extent should not be filled, but that it is not so imperative that the portion below Merrill street should be filled now. As many of our readers know, the canal here turns to the east, and crosses Mississippi street at a slight angle, to very nearly the western edge of Tennessee. If the "wide cut" at the rolling mill were filled up to correspond to the line of Mississippi street, it would require a "causeway" of probably three hundred feet in length, give access there to the ground below, and hasten its settlement. It would be a good thing to do, and so would be similar fills at Merrill, McCarty, Ray, Morris and Kansas streets. Between these points, as the canal traverses what would have been but for private property, we fancy that if any fill is made the canal owners will make it and hold the lots thus made. To Merrill street the filling ought to be done at the same time that it is done to Louisiana street. That will rescue all of Missouri street that can ever be saved, and it will add enough to the value of property to make the increased taxes pay the expense.

STATE NEWS.

Judge Edwin Randall died at Avilla on Sunday.

The costly fence around the Tippecanoe Battle Ground, leaves the graves of the heroes out in the cold, it is said.

The Posey County Commissioners have made a levy of fifteen cents on the hundred dollars for the construction of a new Court House.

Sam McDonald, a wealthy and notorious citizen of Terre Haute, has forsaken his evil ways, abjured liquor, and is endeavoring to live a manly life.

William Ulssas, an apprentice with Meyers & Co., of Evansville, struck a journeyman hammer, fracturing his skull. Ulssas then fled.

A young man of Evansville cured a troublesome cough of long standing by coughing up a gold dollar. And now Evansville is in danger of being depopulated by consumption, induced by attempts to follow this au- riferous example.

A small quantity of settlings from a barrel of boiled linsed oil was thrown out the back door of the drug store of Hunsinger & Co., Mishawaka, and about an hour afterward it was discovered that the refuse oil had ignited spontaneously.

The funeral of Samuel P. Freeman, late City Clerk of Fort Wayne, whom domestic trouble drove to suicide, took place Sunday, and was the largest known there for years. A lively row to get his place began before his body was cold.

A young merchant of Lafayette on a visit to Catlin, Illinois, rejoicing in a clean shirt, was pointed out as "a member of Congress from Indiana," and too modest to deny the suit of impeachment, accepted a free pass to the fair, and allowed an Okies Ames landlady to place several dead-head meals where they would do the most good.

In the northwestern part of the State except on the Kankakee, the Tippecanoe, and on the line of water courses, where the dense fog has covered the bottoms as under a sheet, the late corn has been blighted and blasted. The frost was very heavy—covering the ground and freezing the water in the troughs and surface pools. The potatoes suffered considerably.

Over forty years ago a man named John Wheeler, aged about forty-two years, in company with a young man of nineteen named Beeler, attempted to cross White River near what is known as Park's ford, one mile west of Martinsville in a two horse wagon loaded with whisky, etc. Wheeler drove off his seat, and Beeler, who had left the country suddenly, the accident was freshly brought to mind a short time ago, when in making the excavations for the abutments of the new bridge, at the same place, a hame-string and a barrel hoop were unearthed fifteen feet beneath the surface.

The widow Landerman, living four miles from Clay City, is plucky and lucky. The other day when within one mile of the place, the boy dropped the lines by accident, jumped out to get them, and in so doing frightened the team so that they ran to Clay City, with Mrs. L. in the hack. A quarter of a mile from town they ran through a drove of hogs, creating great confusion. The men, there were twelve or fifteen of them, did their best to stop the runaway, but could not. The widow sat firm in the seat hallooing loudly to the men to stop her team. Half way down Main street they turned a corner into an alley. One horse fell, the hack turned over, and the widow was thrown out, unhurt, but terribly frightened. There was little damage done the team or hack.

Every Man His Own Tombstone.

Among the many triumphs of science and art exhibited at the Vienna Exhibition is an invention of Dr. Marini for petrifying corpses, which seems to have proved very successful. There was shown by the inventor a large round platform of hard and polished material, the top slab of which was composed of human remains, all petrified together in a solid block. The surface of the block had been planed and polished so as to look exactly like marble. By merely seeing the strange product of modern science it was impossible to imagine of what it was composed. It was mistaken for an ordinary slab of marble.

Sanctity of Idiots.

The death of Beau Hickman reminds me of how few eccentric and notorious characters Manhattan has at present. I doubt if there has been any time in twenty years when the city has had such a paucity of human oddities. We used to have on hands a number of these funatics who furnished reporters with paragraphs and the public with entertainment, the year round.

The Haunted Chamber.

Each heart has its haunted chamber. Where the silent moonlight falls! On the floor are mysterious footsteps. There are whispers along the walls!

And mine at times is haunted By phantoms of the pastions As motionless as shadows By the silent moonlight cast.

A form sits by the window, That is not seen by day, For as soon as the dawn approaches It vanishes away.

It sits there in the moonlight, As pale and still, And points with its airy finger Across the window sill.

Without, before the window, There stands a gloomy pine, Whose boughs wave upward and downward As waves these thoughts of mine.

And underneath its branches Is the grave of a little child, Who died upon life's threshold, And never wept nor smiled.

What are ye! O pallid phantoms! That haunt my troubled brain? That vanish when day approaches, And at night return again!

What are ye! O pallid phantoms! But the statues without breath, That stand on the bridge overarching The silent river of death.

Edmund Yates characterizes the Vienna Exposition as a dead, flat, dismal failure.

Nothing disturbs a camp-meeting so much as to propose to abolish the use of tobacco.

General Hardee was kicked in the side by a mule, a few days ago, and is dangerously ill.

The Emperor and Empress of Japan are rusticated at the Hot Springs of Amianoshita.

A young man at a musical party being told to "bring out the old lyre," brought out his mother-in-law.

The Neapolitan papers state that from observations taken on Mount Vesuvius new earthquakes are expected.

There are four tribes of Indians remaining in Delaware, and the aggregate number of the four is only sixteen persons.

Raising hogs is now called "susciculture" as far as gentlemen farmers go, but the common farmers are still "hog-growers."

With the display now required for a first-class funeral, people are beginning to understand what are the terrors of death.

Mr. Columbus Delano, Secretary of the Interior, is mentioned as the only native of Vermont who ever held a cabinet office.

A New York philosopher experimented to see how long he could stand it to have water fall on his head drop by drop, and he held out four hours.

Sir Henry Holland did contemplate another visit to America, but the cholera offering even greater attractions in Russia, he has gone thither instead.

Mr. Podd, who cautiously goes along with eyes downcast on the pavement, says he keeps a "watch on the rind" of watermelons, to prevent accidents.

Ex-Secretary Boutwell is said to distinguish himself with the billiard cue; thus excelling the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, who only plays with a mace.

An illuminated clock has been placed in the lofty spire of the first Baptist church at Providence, and now you can see the time of day from any point in the State.

A circus bear escaped from his cage, at Grand Rapids, and with a lofty contempt for frightened humanity, made for the woods and climbed up a tree. He was recaptured.

A French physician has published a circular warning women against the use of rouge. He states, and cites cases innumerable, that it produces premature falling of the eye-sight.

One firm in Boston sends 3,000 boxes of chewing gum—equivalent to 450,000 "chaws" of tobacco—to Wisconsin and Missouri. The jaws that work on this stuff are mostly feminine.

Mr. Marcus Brownson of Titusville, Pa., has sent $10,000 for the endowment of a theological seminary at Rampant, Indiana, for the education of native preachers among the Telugus.

The old pump at Yale, at whose shrine generations of college poets have tuned their lyres and broken their water jugs, has gone the way of all the earth. The well has been filled up, and its site obliterated.

An agent of Pauline Lucrea has lately purchased a lot on Fifth Avenue, near the park, with a view, it is asserted, of erecting a handsome house thereon, as a future and permanent residence of the German singer.

A private letter from Vienna says that the difference between the actual and anticipated receipts of the Great Exposition, as it affects all classes, will be at least 20,000,000 of florins, or about $10,000,000 in our currency.

A horse ran away on Liberty street, on Saturday afternoon, and a man on the sidewalk, with wonderful presence of mind, threw his hat at the animal, screamed fire, and immediately jumped over a fence and disappeared in a cellarway. [Danbury News.]

Kate Stoddard and her jailers do not get along very harmoniously. Kate, they say, is putting on airs, and won't allow them to burst in her doors when she refuses to see visitors. The jail is overrun with sight-seers, and the deputies can not attend to the half of them.

An island of eleven acres in Lake Minnetonka overlooked by government surveyors, has been discovered, and it is a grassy island at that. The layer of guano is very thick, however, which prompts the inquiry whether our native birds are able to compete with the pauper birds of South America?

An examination of the photographs of the genuine and bogus $500 treasury notes reveals the fact that the Goddess of Liberty on the genuine has not got six toes. What was believed to be the sixth toe proves to be only a union produced by having worn a tight shoe. She stands the examination without kicking.

The Nathan mansion, which has stood vacant ever since the mysterious murder, will probably be sold at auction as it seems impossible to obtain a desirable tenant. The owners complain that the constant revival of the tragedy by the arrest of suspected or self-proclaimed assassins has nearly ruined the property.

Superintendent Philbrick, of Boston, writes from Vienna that the documents illustrating the character and writing of the Boston public library were more complete and comprehensive than those from any other quarter, and that the three men suspended are still away. The class were not allowed to surrender by deputation, but had to make their statements viva voce, individually.

The little trouble over sophomore hazing at Williams College, has been settled to the satisfaction of the faculty and of all lovers of good order. All the sophomores returned to their work, Tuesday noon, after promising entire abstinence from hazing in all forms, during the coming year, and the apologizing for the past. There is no compromise of the great reverence of the republican party, "the elevation of woman." It's getting to be pretty old bait and, besides, there isn't enough of it.

Ancient and Brief.

[Springfield Republican.]

All things considered, perhaps it would have been quite as well if Mr. G. F. Hoar had left out that allusion to the great reverence of the republican party, "the elevation of woman." It's getting to be pretty old bait and, besides, there isn't enough of it.

CITY NEWS.

Blind and Tinker street is to have a drinking fountain.
A freight train was wrecked Sunday near Spencer, on the Vincennes road.
Mr. O. Durlinger lost a finger while coupling cars in the Peru yards yesterday.
The regular monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at their rooms to night.
There were thirty-five deaths in the city last week, none from contagious diseases.
The Northwestern Christian University grounds have been divided into eighty-five lots.
The cost of the Meridian street block pavement from New York to Tinker streets was $50,075 75.
Albert Parsons and Miss Alice Van Ness will give a concert at the Academy of Music November 11.
It was decided last night not to remove the drinking fountain from the Post Office front. Correct.
Chief Richmann wants a fire cistern corner of South street and Kentucky avenue. It is to be built.
Fred Klan and August Schraeder have been arrested on three indictments each for selling liquor to minors.
The location of the Indianapolis Boot and Shoe Manufacturing Company has not been definitely decided upon.
It is reported that Colonel John A. Bridgland, well known in this State, has been appointed Consul to Havre.
The Emerald Society have a dance at Washington Hall to-morrow evening, and the United Irish Benevolent Association on the 24th.
Messrs. W. P. Gallup, George Ayres and William Metcalf, the first as Chief, have been appointed grain inspectors by the Board of Trade.
Dr. Allen, W. C. Smock, J. D. Vindege and L. W. Moses have been added to the Committee on Amusement and Music at the Exposition.
An attachment has been issued against Thomas Beck, William Blue and John Keefe, for refusing to answer interrogatories as witnesses in a trial.
Articles of Association of the Home Building Association of Madison were filed with the Secretary of State yesterday, the capital stock being $100,000.
The petition of the Belt Railway Company, asking a general right of way along the streets and alleys of the city has been very sensibly rejected by the Council.
The boarding house of Mrs. Scullin, on West Washington street, was entered at an early hour yesterday morning and twenty dollars in money were stolen by the raiders.
Only one bid was received last night for bridging Pogue's Run at Bay street, and the amount was so unsatisfactory that another reference was made to the Committee on Bridges.
The argument for a new trial in the case of the Water Works Company vs. the State, for possession of a tract of land near Military Park will be heard before Judge Howard this week.
Bohler & Brown, architects have submitted a plan for rebuilding the book and ladder, and reel house on South street. Aggregated cost, $9,085, of which $885 is estimated for their plan.
The Journal intimates that the evening assistant of the Public Library is habitually insulting to the patrons, "and is not unfrequently seen upon the street in a state of intoxication." Somebody needs investigating.
The suit of the Indiana Central Canal Company against William Sheets, for recovery of rents on the use of water from the canal, was concluded yesterday in Judge Blair's room, the court finding for the plaintiff in the sum of $8,000.
The Council settled the gas lighting question again by dividing the city into four districts and awarding the contracts for lighting to James Anderson, George W. Seibert, John Langstaffe and James T. Williams. Now let there be some system.
There were three noticeable failures in the Council last night. The committee failed to report in favor of the Silsby engine, Wicked Bill Gibson failed to vacate his seat, and J. McSherry failed to demand an investigation on the Shepard matter.
The Irving Literary Society held an election last evening, which resulted as follows: W. Frank Flanner, President; B. Cadwallader, Secretary; George L. Long, Editor; Horace M. Hadley, Critic; Marion Steele, Chairman of the Executive Committee.

REVOLUTION IN CHAIRS.
We wish to call attention to our
Perforated 3-PLY Veneer Chairs,
Made by gluing Veneers together, so that the grain of each layer shall cross the grain of its neighbor. By this process we obtain an ornamental, comfortable and cleanly seat at about the cost of cane.
Introduced to the public less than one year ago, they have received the most flattering notice, not only from scientific bodies and experts, but the people turn to them with a hearty welcome, glad to find such a beautiful successor to the cane seat with its long list of objections.
These new and beautiful Chairs and Rockers need but to be seen to secure admiration. They are new, not only in appearance, but in plan and construction also. One piece of our three-ply Veneer forms the seat and back, which fit the person in the most acceptable manner. By this plan we secure unusual strength, as well as comfort and beauty, with the least possible weight of material.
Extract from Judge's Report at the last Exhibition of the American Institute, held in the city of New York, October, 1872: "The Perforated Chair and Settee Bostons are almost indestructible by ordinary use, and are cleaner, cooler, and far superior to either wood or cane bottoms. They are recommended for special mention or a special reward." Made only by the

THE EVENING NEWS

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1873.

1 P. M. Barometer, 30.114 Thermometer, 72°

CITY NEWS.

Raper Commandery meets for drill to-night.

The investigation of officers Ray and Bacon is set for to-morrow afternoon.

A marriage license has been issued to George Stahle and Augusta Sickle.

The Eberhart peddling without license will be tried by the Mayor to-day.

The Governor and State officers to-day are visiting the Soldiers' Home at Knightstown.

Peter Carson, of the White Hall, is being judiciously reprimanded for keeping a gambling table.

Last night the front window of Robert George's grocery, 184 West Washington street, was broken in and a quantity of nick-nacks, canned fruits, etc., astrayed. The thief was seen.

See Mullen, the old demure, whose life for years past has been a regular succession of depravity, in which she graduated from the highest to the lowest depths of prostitution, died yesterday.

Marriage and Kate Fisher are "agitating" the Academy stage, and for that matter the audience also. As a play the first saw its best days ago, "when you and I were young, John," and Kate was younger than she is now.

The Depot police have adopted the Metropolitan badge and yesterday donned their new shields for the first time. They have also ordered the regulation belt and baton, which will give them in fact the appearance of guardians of the public.

This morning early, two of the male inmates at the colored boarding house of Mrs. Walker, on Columbus, near Ohio street, held a grown daughter while the old lady used a strap about her shoulder. The "ma'am" called in outside help for coercion.

Councilman Rush is more "down" than ever on the Delaware street bridge, and now wants to see it cut up into sections and used as crossings for the first time. There are two reasons, (in his opinion) for all of this: 1. It has failed to answer the purpose intended; 2. It interferes with his business.

If reports are to be believed, and there is no reason to doubt their authenticity, the City Hospital stands in need of improvements, additions and a little of most everything for the comfort and care of patients. Last night the Council made a move towards filling these wants, and purpose buying furniture, bed clothing, etc., sufficient at least for temporary needs.

Two slightly "be-muddled" gentlemen last evening wandered into a load of coal banked on the pavement fronting Squire Fisher's office. One fell flat, and the other helping him, also fell. They were trying to get the coal into the furnace, and were completely done up.

A poor laborer, "blessed" with seven children capable of attending the public schools, opens vigorous war about the numerous school books which the teacher requires them to have, and asks if it isn't hard to have four dollars and forty cents come upon one's pocket when one is poor.

It's rough, no doubt, upon his pocket book, and it should be satisfactory to have children sufficiently intelligent to present such investment.

Accident to a Lady.

Last evening Mrs. Cal. Elliott was seriously injured by a fall from her carriage, near the family residence, on North West street. She was driving homeward at a brisk trot, and a team behind endeavoring to pass, her horse started up with a sudden plunge, and in the momentary confusion ran the vehicle upon one of those sand piles which the street Commissioner has strewn along these moments of his dilatory work. When picked up, Mrs. Elliott was partially unconscious, and at the time considered dangerously hurt; but some hours afterwards, when the attending physician, Dr. Woolles, pronounced the case a favorable one.

Wheldon's Hurt.

Poor Billy Wheldon, when he started out with his train yesterday morning was warned by his brother Marsh of the dangerous condition of that step, and he promised to see that a rope was fixed so that no accident would occur. In the hurry and bustle of train collections the conductor doubtless forgot, and the ladies would have it that he should be the first to suffer from the carelessness of the men in the yards who left the freight cars standing so near the main track that the passenger cars steps were torn loose thereby. It makes a fellow swear to think of the handsome physician of Billy being crippled for life by such gross carelessness.

A Lot Ordered to be Purchased.

The Council last night concurred in the report of the Committee recommending the purchase of a lot for fire engine purposes on Sixth street, near Tennessee. A very animated discussion sprang up over this report, several of the Councilmen contending that the district near the N. W. C. University, and the one surrounding the Glass Works need protection as well as did Broad and Darnall's district. These facts were generally conceded, but as this lot would sometime be needed, and was at present offered at low figures, it was determined to secure it while the opportunity was offered. Whether the engine to be purchased will be located there or not is a question for the future to determine.

Council Proceedings.

A regular meeting was held last evening, and the council for the evening was presided over by the Mayor. The first item on the agenda was the report of the Finance Committee. The Finance Committee reported the $500,000 twenty-year bonds disposed of at $3.77 above par, also that the last issue of $1,000,000 per cent. warrants had been readily taken in this city. A communication from the school Board made official notice of the following tax levy for school purposes: For tuition fund, 10 cents on the $100. For special fund, 20 cents on the $100. For library fund 2 cents on the $100. The following street improvement ordinances were introduced:

To gravel the first alley west of East street from 20 feet south of South street to 20 feet further south.

To gravel Home avenue from Columbia street to Central avenue.

To gravel Michigan street and sidewalks from Washington street to corporation line.

To bulldoze the east gutter on Madison avenue from South to garden street.

It was ordered to put an iron bridge over the canal at Blackford street.

No Sissy Yet.

Last night the Fire Department Committee failed to report a decision upon the new engine to be chased, and the matter went over for another week. The test yesterday of the Sissy, the more it is chased, the more it is chased. The committee gave the satisfaction anticipated, although the supporters of the machine are universally unanimous in pronouncing it a splendid one. We say "Sissy," but from that Mr. Home Sissy should be excepted, for he expressed regrets to the committee that a better record was not established, and claimed that there were several adverse circumstances which prevented. Nine minutes fourteen and a half seconds is a long time to wait for steam sufficient to force water through 750 feet of hose and eleven minutes some seconds is still more reason for the steam to reach 120 feet—a common average distance—which is necessary in half of the fires in which the engine may be called into action. In the display of yesterday there was not a single exhibition of strength in forcing water which the Latta is not fully competent to equal, if not exceed, besides the cost is six hundred and fifty dollars cheaper, uses less "heat," and is twelve minutes fourteen and a half seconds getting ready to squirt. It may be that the Amoskeag, Pawtucket, or Chapin & Jones possess a superior to the Latta, but as there is no opportunity of judging of their business, and as the other has made a famous record in this city, it ought not to be just the coming to a decision. Another fact in favor of Amoskeag & Co., so far as known they use no "oil and grease" for the introduction of their Latta machine by any city, LATELY CALLED IN INDIANAPOLIS.

Railroad Tracks and Street Blockheads.

To the Editor of The Evening News: Published statements are made to the effect that the I. C. & L. railroad company have purchased from the Water Works Company the bed of the canal between Market and South streets, with the object in view of laying an additional track for their road alongside of that now used. The City Council should hesitate before granting the privilege of laying another railroad track through a portion of the city so densely populated. If the I. C. & L. Company want a second track, and have to purchase valuable ground on which to build it, it will not be economy for them, as well as affording relief for all the western part of the city, to abandon their road east of White river and construct a new track west of that stream to a point near, or at the river crossing of the I. C. & W., and the I. C. & L. roads? What is the use of building belt railroads and constructing tunnels and viaducts to relieve one part of the city from street blockades by railroad traffic if the facilities for creating this nuisance are to be multiplied? If in another portion of the city the I. C. & L. road was relaid entirely on the western side of White river to a crossing point, it would obviate the necessity of a belt railroad, double-tracked, crescent-shaped road, reaching from about the present starting point of the Belt road and extending around to an intersection with the main trunk line of the city. This would make connections with all the railroads centering at Indianapolis and afford all the facilities of transportation and for the speedy shipment of freight that a belt railroad would do. What is wanted is not to increase the number of railroad tracks in different places in the central portions of the city, but to get as many of them as closely together as the business interest of the public and the roads will allow. Let us look at this matter with eyes to the future, and not with a view of giving some temporary advantage to a railroad company at the expense of a great public annoyance. B. D. J.

Some Questions.

To the Editor of Evening News:

What induces the managers of the Exposition to allow larger beer and other liquors sold in and around the grounds? Do they think the patrons received by them for this privilege will compensate for the mischief done?

Do they expect the patronage of the order-loving and moral citizens of our city and State while they permit a business so pernicious to be carried on?

Will the State Board of Agriculture "arise and explain?" E. J.

The Exposition at Medina's Temple of Fashion can not be excelled, even at the Fair grounds. The ladies are lavish in their praise of the exhibition of real hair goods, hoop skirts and corsets at 12 W. Washington street.

Most of business men have learned that it is better to pay fair rates for insurance in a company like the Etna Fire Insurance Company, than to pay those low rates, and on settlement with one of these wild cat companies take fifty cents on the dollar of the amount your policy calls for, as has often been the case with these companies, that write at low rates and pay but little attention to the class of risks they take. For reliable insurance take the Etna, A. Bromet, agent.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Thousands can testify their appreciation of the fall styles of gentlemen's hats as introduced in the original by Ike Davis, Corner & Co., 22 West Washington street. Covers of the artistic and beautiful should not fail of making their purchases there.

Ladies, Ladies! Have you seen the stock of goods now selling at the Paris Store? There is the place for you to buy and make money.

4,000 yards beautiful percales at 12½¢ per yard; worth 25¢.

1,000 yards double satin damask at $1 25 per yard; worth from $2 to $2 25 per yard.

100 dozen elegant double damask dinner napkins at $2 75 per doz.; worth $5.

200 fine damask and huckaback towels at such prices as will insure a speedy sale.

100 elegant French embroidered linen sets, former prices $5 to $8; now selling at $2 50.

In addition the general stock is full and complete. All goods are desirable and fresh, at very low prices. Remember the Paris Store, 3 Odd Fellows Hall.

Bradshaw's Music Palace, 44 and 46 East Washington street, is the place for you to purchase anything you may desire in the musical merchandise line. Pianos, melodeons, organs and all kinds of musical instruments cheaper than elsewhere in town.

White metal goods are becoming very fashionable, and L. Walker keeps a full line constantly on hand; also, cooking and heating stoves, for coal or wood, very cheap. No. 29 North Illinois street.

Buy your lamps and oil of A. R. Chase, 15 South Meridian street. His stock is extensive and of the most elegant workmanship. Call and examine before making purchases.

Bowen, Stewart & Co. have received a second supply of General Wallace's books, "The Fair God." The first supply sold like a flash.

Ladies visiting the Exposition, and all others, should not fail to call and examine the millinery and fancy goods at the establishment of the Misses Lueders, 24 West Ohio street. These ladies are well known to our citizens, and are reliable and worthy the patronage of the public. If you want anything in their line, don't fail to call on them. Prices very reasonable. us 78

To those who enjoy fine cream candies, caramels, gum drops, peppermints, hoarhound caramels, and all other toothsome candies, we would say stop into Walker, Craig & Craig's confectionery, 14 East Washington street, and try a box of their assorted candies.

It does not matter what your ideas of insurance may be, if you are not insured in a live and living company you are paying money out where you are not likely to get any return should loss occur. Insure in the Home Fire Insurance Company, of New York, and if your property is destroyed, losses will be promptly paid. John R. Childers is the city solicitor.

All the latest styles of jewelry, no matter for what the design, can be had at Harry Craft's Jewel Hall, 24 E. Washington street. Engraving free of charge on all articles sold.

A very large and superior stock of men's, women's and children's pegged boots and shoes suitable for fall and winter wear, to be sold regardless of cost at No. 2 Martindale's Block, North Pennsylvania street.

Persons visiting the Exposition building should not fail to try a glass of soda water from that elegant soda fountain put up by Lippincott, of Philadelphia. For pure water running it, which insures that the syrups used are pure and cleanly made.

Advice for everybody that costs nobody anything. Lotions and cosmetics make a superficial coating on the skin, give an artificial color, and are very destructive to the color, texture and pliability of the skin itself. Wrinkled, haggard and prematurely old-looking, exactly describe the appearance of those who habitually "paint their faces." If you would have the clear, transparent, healthy and soft tinted complexion which nature gives, free from pimples, tan, freckles or all other disfigurements, use Hand Sapoline—the most effective and fragrant toilet soap ever manufactured. Sold by all dealers at 10 and 15 cents a cake. us 5 d&w

Persons visiting the Exposition should not fail to look at those beautiful monuments the Carpenter Brothers have placed on the grounds. The reason why they sell so cheap is because they import from headquarters.

BRIGHTWOOD.

This beautiful suburb, the most eligible for manufactures, lies northeast of the city, on the Bellefontaine Railway, about three miles from the center of town. The ground is high, being from eighty to one hundred feet higher than the city. There have been many manufactories erected here than in all the other suburbs together.

We are offering for sale some of the most desirable lots in the suburb at low figures, giving very easy terms. The lots are all large, being 40x133. To those who wish to invest we can offer superior inducements.
